

General FAQ's: Do you offer customer reviews?

We are in the process of setting up this option but as of right now, you can most likely simply search for reviews on the product in which you are interested in your favorite online search engine. There are many stores and review sites that rate many of our items. If anything you find in there reviews is confusing or troubling to you, please contact our Sales Department. Often problems that customers review have a simple solution or have been corrected in newer incarnations.
